North - South Vietnam: Hanoi may have introduced additional regular army (PAVN) personnel into northern South Vietnam to strengthen the Viet Cong.

Two men trained in the 304th and 325th divisions of the PAVN have recently been captured in this area. They infiltrated in units which were then broken up into smaller teams. The total strength of these groups is estimated at 200.

South Vietnamese commanders have received reports that PAVN elements have participated in the recently increased Communist harassing action in this area.

*Haiti: [The rebel group in the mountains 15 miles northeast of Saltrou has grown to 50 men and may soon be reinforced.]

additional rebels--who allegedly received "training with Cubans" in Puerto Rico and Miami--are ready to join those already in the country. There are no indications that any Haitian exiles have been trained on US territory. However, should President Duvalier receive this "evidence," he will undoubtedly use it to try to implicate the US in the Saltrou incursion.]

NOTES

*Congo: Moise Tshombé was appointed premier last night. The composition of his cabinet, which is largely made up of close associates or political nobodies, indicates that he intends to take tight control of the central government. Although the appointments will probably arouse considerable protest, the opposition is legally helpless because no parliament is currently in session and none is expected for at least six months.
